

Grim Aftermath at Orleans

The receding waters of the Klamath River left a grim parade of washers and silt at Orleans as cameramen were able to record yesterday for the first time since the floods began nearly three weeks ago.