

The Hungry Cat

written and illustrated by Buck Wayne Glascoe

BUCK

The Hungry Cat

written and illustrated by Buck Wayne Glascoe

One day there was a hungry cat named Buck. Buck thought to himself, “What should I eat?”

He started looking through the drawers, but didn’t find anything except for spider webs.

He decided to go to the store.

When he got in the store he went to aisle three for cat food. He looked on the top shelf and only saw one can, but two other cats wanted the same can.

Buck decided to fight for the can of food. Buck pawed one of the alley cats in the face and scratched the other alley cat's face. Both alley cats knew they couldn't win so they ran away.

When Buck went for the can he was shocked to see the can of food was gone. He searched the whole store and saw a dog with it in the checkout line.

Buck chased the dog until he ran into the wall; Buck grabbed the can of food and ran back to his house as fast as he could.

the

When Buck got back to his house, he quickly cooked the food and ate it all up then went to sleep.

END

About the Author

Buck Wayne Glascoe is a 8-year-old 2nd grader at Junction Elementary. He likes to play “Luigi’s Mansions” on his Nintendo 3DS and also likes to go swimming.

© 2014 Buck Wayne Glascoe

This project was made possible through a grant from The Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA), which is a federal grant program that is managed by the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS) and administered in California by the State Librarian.

The Áak Utkirihti (He/She is looking into the fire) project is a unique partnership with the Karuk Tribal Education/ Computer Centers, Karuk Tribal Libraries, local schools, and County and State Libraries to increase literacy, access to library services and foster authorship throughout our tribal communities.

